“SINE DOCTRINA VITA EST QUASI MORTIS IMAGO”

NUNTIATA COLOSSIANS 3:14-16

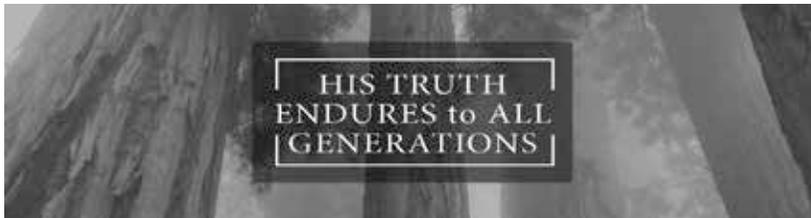

But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

THE AMBROSE SCHOOL

is seeking a Secondary Letters Teacher. Our secondary program centers on Letters, a combined course in history, literature, philosophy, theology, and art appreciation. The students read original source coursework in the great books and are guided through discussions, lecture and writing. We place a strong emphasis on a Christian approach to the great books (understanding through revelation and reason), as opposed to an enlightenment perspective (understanding through reason) or a postmodern perspective

(understanding through personal interpretation). We reject higher critical and deconstructionist approaches as, at core, unchristian. Successful candidates will have a sound familiarity with the great books, preferably through their college education. Any candidate must have a love for secondary age students and a proven ability to live peaceably in Christian community with others. A successful background in Socratic discussion or classical teaching is preferred. Please email cover letter and resume to SHERRICK@THEAMBROSESCHOOL.ORG. 3/18

JOSHUA JOHN LABOSSIERE

“There has been a terrible destruction of words in our time,” said Malcolm Muggeridge. C.S. Lewis said the advent of the machine has brought us through the biggest change in history. G.K. Chesterton addressed the devolving of society into a nonchalant admiration of heresy; I read some to my mother the other night, prompting her to ask “Wait, when was this written?” Bonhoeffer fought the Nazis. Wilberforce fought to end slavery. And I had no idea about any of it. I was, as I feel many Christians are, blind to the battle. Sixteen years of school, and I felt uneducated. People attempted to assure me otherwise, and I may have been incapable at the time of explaining myself, but I knew the truth. This nagging, or prompting perhaps, led me to begin what I have since dubbed my reeducation process, which in turn led me to discovering CCE. This is the battlefield for the minds of precious children, and for our Constitutional Republic. I want to plant schools one day. I have recently enrolled in Latin classes. I have a BA in Storytelling. I have extensive experience working with and instructing children (see resume), but not much in formal academic settings---I am applying to be a substitute teacher locally. I desire to find a school that will give me a little guidance as I get my bearing, and in return they will get everything I am as I pour myself back into it, for the sake of Christ’s kingdom. I have a beautiful wife and daughter that will accompany me. We will be all-in. For a cover letter and resume, email me at JOSHUAJLABOSSIERE@GMAIL.COM. 1/18

NICHOLAS DANIEL NEWMAN

I am a recent Classics (Ancient Greek literature) Ph.D. from the University of Zurich, Switzerland with a broad educational base (my Masters degree is in Greek literature and linguistics, Latin literature and Medieval history). While my passion is to excite my students about Classics, I have maintained a rigorous agenda of scholarship, especially focused on Classical Reception. I have taught Latin, Ancient Greek and German in a wide variety of classroom settings. From the small, advanced classroom of a Swiss Gymnasium to the large general level Latin and German courses in public school and from an intermediate Ancient Greek course at a public university (the University of New Hampshire) to Latin at a small liberal arts/great books college (Northeast Catholic College). These varied experiences have molded me into an adaptive and intuitive teacher. Additionally, I have gained experience in administration. I have sat on several accreditation committees, both at the high school and collegiate levels. During the 2016-2017 school year, I organized a large “Roman Day” at Northeast Catholic College. The college students and local high schools (~120 in all) were invited to a day of interactive sessions on subjects such as: Roman religion, the Roman military, Roman food etc., and to interact with authentic Roman antiquities. This school year I hope to put this event on again, and am organizing an academic conference at the college on Classical Reception. You can reach me at USERNICK3126@MSN.COM. 1/18

JAMES RICHARD FROHLICH

Over the last several years I have come to appreciate the value of the classical model of education. I am looking for a position in Bible/theology. I am also able to teach Greek, Hebrew, and elementary Latin. In January 2018 I will confer with the degree of Ph.D. in Biblical Studies (concentrating in Old Testament) from Dallas Theological Seminary. For CV and Resume, please email me at FROHLICHJAMES@GMAIL.COM. 1/18

JOSHUA LEE HARRIS

I am currently a candidate in the conjoint Philosophy PhD Program run by the Toronto Institute for Christian Studies and the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. I am also Adjunct Professor of Philosophy at Providence College in Providence, RI, and the Global News Editor for Christian Courier (a print and online publication associated with the Christian Reformed Church in Canada). I have significant experience teaching philosophy, theology, history and literature at both high school and university levels, and my written work has appeared in many highly respected academic publications. Most of all, I am enthusiastic about the classical Christian education movement in North America and beyond, and would count it as a privilege to shape students’ hearts and minds in an ACCS institution. I am very eager indeed to talk about how I might fit in an ACCS institution, so please feel free to contact me anytime at JHARRI11@PROVIDENCE.EDU. 1/18

I am seeking employment as an elementary teacher in a classical Christian school. As a graduate of a classical Christian school, my goal is to provide students with an excellent education grounded in God's Word so that they will be prepared to serve God as contributing and responsible citizens. DANIEL M EATON

The study of philosophy is an essential part of classical education. Philosophy offers tools that enable one to understand and evaluate one's beliefs. Careful study of philosophy counteracts short-sighted and compartmentalized thinking. It's an indispensable aid for seeing the big picture. It's part of becoming a virtuous person. In addition to my experience teaching college students, I also have experience teaching high school students. For the past three years, I've served as the Youth Director at Redeemer Presbyterian Church (Austin). Under my leadership, the group has grown from ten regular members to forty. This church work is not only evidence of my ability and passion to effectively work with high school students, it reveals my motivations as well. Namely, I study and teach philosophy in order to build God's kingdom. I believe that philosophy is a tool that God uses to help transform our minds, so that we can discern what is good and learn to love it. You can reach me at DANIELEATON@UTEXAS.EDU or (714) 299-6306. 2/18

JOHN KENNON GRANT

I am experienced teacher, coach, and administrator who not only believes in the nonpareil nature of Christian education, but is also one who experienced God's goodness through Christian education. I was in a public middle school when my parents died. The Lord opened doors to Christian education, and as a result I was radically changed. My experience convinced me that Christian education is not merely about informing a mind with facts, but about forming life wisdom and habits that help usher in the kingdom of God. My education and experience are all geared towards the end of Christian formation through formal education. I hold a B.A. degree from Crichton College and an M.A. degree from Reformed Theological Seminary. I am currently pursuing an EdD in Instruction and Curriculum Leadership at the University of Memphis. I currently hold an ACSI credential for a secondary principal. This year marks my eighth year in Christian education, with six in the classroom and two years in administration. I was on a path towards school leadership in a "traditional" Christian education but returned to the classroom. As my wife and I look towards classical education for our own children, I too hope to transition to classical education professionally. Most importantly, though, I love the Lord. I love his church and his word. My life's pursuit is his truth because his truth changed my life, and can do so for all who put their trust in Christ. You can reach me at JOHNKGRNT@GMAIL.COM or (901) 833-3338. 2/18

RUSSELL HAL FREEMAN

My academic background is in apologetics (PhD) and theology (BA and MDiv), and I have been a pastor for almost ten years. I was introduced to classical education through reading Douglas Wilson's book, Recovering the Lost Tools of Learning. My wife and I currently homeschool our children through Classical Conversations, but we would like to be a part of a classical and Christian school community. Although the emphasis of my formal training is in philosophy, theology, and biblical studies, I would also relish an opportunity to teach humanities, logic, or languages. I have taken 24 hours of biblical Greek at the undergraduate and graduate level, and Latin was one of my language proficiencies at the doctoral level. I have also taken writing classes at the undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral levels, and I write articles on passages of Scripture for a small Baptist publication in South Carolina. My favorite authors are G.K. Chesterton, C.S. Lewis, and J.R.R. Tolkien. Contact me by email at RHFREEMAN54@GMAIL.COM for cover letter and resume. 2/18

MIKE STERN

As a teacher, I can deliver more than fourteen years of teaching experience in various environments with a diverse student population and with students both fluent in English as well as English language learners. I am passionate about history and social studies and how these disciplines can inform our perspective on life and give us a "tool box" from which we can draw a viewpoint beyond our personal experience. I work hard to craft interesting lessons which provide useful information and give students the opportunity to develop their critical thinking and writing skills. People tend to build a veneer of competence and ability and then seek jobs and activities where they can demonstrate competence with a reasonable level of enjoyment. However, the major event to inform my thinking as an adult was when I did the opposite. I moved to China, fresh out of college, to be an English teacher at a university while not being able to speak Chinese. It was the most humbling and frustrating experience that I have had as an adult when I became utterly and totally unable to communicate and read. Later, that same experience would occur when I decided to learn Chinese full time. Learning a language from zero and attempting to move to a level of competency is humiliating, frustrating, and exhausting. For a resume and cover letter, please email MXSTERN@GMAIL.COM 2/18

EMILIA BALOG

I am an experienced Latin Teacher who has taught in Classical Christian Schools before and who has lived in London, UK for the past seven years working as an after school Nanny/Tutor. I am currently looking for teaching opportunities in a Classical Christian School environment. I am proficient in classical languages and passionate about the study of literature and Theology. I have written couple of books for children which are in the process of being published. JASON ERIC MILLER

I'm an experienced educator with a leadership background in teaching in the classical classroom, humanities, and launching a classical school. I am currently the chair of the Humanities Department at Eastern Oklahoma State College (Wilburton OK), where I teach Global Humanities, World Religions, Philosophy, and Art History. When our family moved to an area with no classical school, we worked together with a handful of families to found Trinity Academy (Industry IL) in 2012. I taught Latin and Bible at Trinity for three years before leaving for my current position. While at Trinity, my full-time job was as the priest at St George's Anglican Church (Macomb IL). I am a devotee of the English Reformation with a love for the Benedictine tradition of spiritual formation. I am looking to return to leadership in a classical school. My ideal job would be a Head of School to a growing school that is looking to expand its enrollment through the Rhetoric stage. At Trinity Academy I was offered the position of Logic School administrator, but was unable to accept. The position would have been part-time, and the small rural church where I served was unable to continue supporting our family financially. I also love the classroom, and would be interested in the right situation teaching as I have indicated. For a resume and cover letter, please email JEMILLER323@GMAIL.COM. 3/18

CHARISSA FAITH MACKENZIE

Being home schooled (in a Pastor's family) by parents with Master's Degrees, I learned by heart the beauty of Christian Classical education. Their emphasis on having a strong Biblical philosophy for each subject grounded me in truth. It formed my worldview in a profound and practical way. I then went on to teach at a Classical Christian school, which was an incredible blessing. I have such passion for nurturing minds; for directing them into the Word for truth in academic subjects. I have the capability to teach history, literature, theology, and math in the dialectic stage. I have aspirations to teach history at the rhetoric stage, hence why I selected philosophy, which is crucial to understanding history. American history and Western civilization are my two favorite subjects. I am comfortable teaching all of the subjects in the grammar stage; I have learned enough Greek to teach it to students in this age group. I also want to pick up the study of Latin and logic to expand my teaching capabilities. For cover letter and resume, please email a STEPHEN.HLMN@GMAIL.COM. 3/18

PAUL TEMPLE BERGHAUS

Ordained minister, Army Reserve Chaplain, and PhD student in philosophy seeks a position to teach Bible, Logic, Rhetoric, Humanities, Philosophy, or a combination thereof, to students in grades 7-12. I am eager to help young Christians develop a strong Biblical worldview, which is also informed by a critical engagement with the history of ideas, to better understand what they believe and why they believe it. I have graduate-level degrees in theology and philosophy, prior teaching experience at an ACCS accredited school, 13 years of pastoral work as an active duty and reserve chaplain, and five years of teaching as a character development trainer in the Army and, currently, a teaching assistant in philosophy at Georgetown University. I am married, and my wife and I have five children. We currently live in northern Virginia, and are willing to relocate to the Northeast, Southeast, or Midwest. My own study and application of theology and philosophy has enriched and deepened my reverence and awe of our LORD and His works. I hope to have the opportunity to cultivate the same in future generations of covenant children and to help their parents nurture them in the fear and admonition of the LORD. ELISABETH ROSE HOKANSON

As a result of my teaching experience in Tanzania and at Baldwin Christian School and education at New Saint Andrews College, I have developed a passion and personal commitment to three things: fostering Christ-centered and academically rigorous environment for students with various backgrounds, maximizing individual student performance, and developing students' love for learning. During my career at New

Saint Andrews College, I wrestled with the the works of the most influential minds throughout history; identifying themes and influences, and holding these up to Christianity. Speaking and writing clearly, winsomely, and succinctly were vital to my success. In my most recent positions as a Music and Art Dean, PE teacher, and Assistant Dean, I developed effective lesson plans, thought-provoking exercises, and useful assessments that promote curiosity and making connections across the curriculum. I also acted as an administrator both in Tanzania and Baldwin Christian Classical Academy. Contact me by email at ELISABETH.HOKANSON@GMAIL.COM. 4/18

BECKY S. STAGGS

I have been the Principal at Sojourn Academy, a Classical PK-12th grade school north of Houston, for the past two years with a total of 21 years of experience in education in both teaching and administration. The teachers and I have been reading the book Teaching How to Learn in a What-to-Learn Culture by Kathleen Hopkins. Have you heard of it? The book is a surprisingly easy read based on cognitive research that gives teachers (and old Principals) a practical guide to instructional strategies that support Classical education. We have been thoroughly enjoying it! My personal objective is to lead a school body to love the Lord with all our hearts, souls, minds and strength and our neighbors as ourselves, in an education that prepares them to be all that God has called them to be (Matthew 22: 37-39). I believe a Classical education equips students to do just that. I have grown to love and appreciate the

Please consider my qualifications and experience as you allocate teaching roles at your school. I'd just like to take a moment to let you know what my qualifications, experience and extracurricular interests are: First, I'm a teacher in English literature, biblical and theological studies. From 2003-06, I taught high school English at the Kern High School District in California. Then, from 2010-2014, I served at Wesley Institute as Lecturer in Systematic Theology (renamed Excelsia College in 2014) and have, since then, taught at both the undergraduate level (online, Azusa Pacific University) and at the secondary level at Plenty Valley Christian College. My Plenty Valley role has involved me in teaching both the Bible and English literature to student groups with diverse faith backgrounds. I have a passion for students, and especially enabling them to see the world through the eyes of the Bible. I have in-depth training in biblical studies, with an emphasis on biblical Hebrew and the Old Testament from my MA degree. This involved training in biblical Greek as well, and during my time at Trinity I chose to focus on biblical theology as my subject of interest. My extracurricular activity of interest would probably be debate, which is what I did during my student days. Please feel free to contact any of the references listed on my CV. I am a US citizen, so I can work in the US. For resume and cover letter, please email CGME@FASTMAIL.FM. 4/18

NATHAN STERNER COBB

In high school, I was a music tutor. In college, I taught summer music camps. When I finished my Bachelor of Arts in Psychology and minor in music, I became a substitute teacher. Shortly after that, I began teaching 5th grade at a Christian school. Two years later, I became a police officer and, two years after that, a police training officer. But I missed the classroom. Therefore, I began a Master of Arts in Teaching program to sharpen my pedagogical skill and transition back into the classroom. While completing my master's degree, I also obtained a Teaching English as a Foreign Language certificate should the opportunity to combine classical Christian education and international missions arise. In the meantime, I have finished my master's degree and returned to the classroom as a PE teacher in a public school. I am, however, eager to return to a classroom where I can help parents sharpen their arrows through education that is discipleship (Psalm 127:4; Deuteronomy 6:4-9). You can contact me by email or phone, NATHANCOBB@LIVE.COM; (270) 231-7369. 4/18

CHRISTINE HOLLY MCCONNELL

I am a dually certified elementary classroom teacher as well as a literacy specialist. I have been a teacher for the last twelve years, six of those years in a Christian school, four of those years in the classical method. My classroom instructional experience includes, but is not limited to, teaching Latin at the primary level, phonics, traditional mathematics, and the implementation of Classical Conversations into a classroom setting. I teach Classical Conversations workshops on geography to lower elementary students for two summers now. After school throughout the year, I teach private music lessons in classical piano. Through reading and professional development, I enjoy staying current in best practices for classical education. You can contact me by email, CMCCONNELLO827@GMAIL.COM. 4/18 of their God-given potential. In March 2018 I completed my doctoral studies (Ed. D in Educational Leadership) through Liberty University and have published in a scholarly journal. I graduated (Phi Kappa Phi) with my master's degree in special education in August 2007. I earned a bachelor's degree in English from the University of Baltimore. I have online as well as classroom teaching experience in regular and special education, secular and Classical Christian education. I have experience speaking to families, educators and community leaders. My husband and I have spent the past eight years studying and supporting Classical Christian Education. Our web site is Www.2CEI.org. Through Classical Christian Education International, Inc. I have developed and presented at teacher trainings and public relations events outlining a Christ centered worldview, the Classical Christian philosophy and methodology as well as the evidence for excellence reported by parents and schools using this method. I have real-world job experience in print publications, communications, and web-site maintenance. I believe I would make a valuable member of your team. I appreciate your prayerful consideration. BILLINGS, MT

The ACCS website states that, "If the Lord reveals the need to you, He may be calling you to start a school." After about a year of reflection, contemplation, study, prayer, research, and more prayer, the time has come for me to heed this call, to move forward, and to contact the ACCS. I seek the establishment of a Classical Christian school in Billings, MT. Our children deserve the opportunity to attain a Classical Christian education. To this end they need someone to commence the beginning; they need advocates. The schools they currently attend revolve around test-taking, and predominantly focus on the production of college- and career-ready students. Our children deserve so much more. I hope that Billings has a group of parents who, themselves, have been inspired with the goodness and beauty of Classical education, and believe that our community's youth would flourish should such a school be made available. Classical Christian Education in Missions in Africa as a Mission Outreach—Really? How? And Why?

The Rafiki Foundation has established 10 classical schools across the continent of Africa. It is our hope that God will use us to bring Christian Classical education to a continent whose educational system is suffering.

We are looking for educators who can work as missionaries and can commit to a minimum of two years on the field. An ideal candidate will have a Bachelor's degree in their select subject, a love for teaching, a heart for missions, and the adaptability that mission's work requires. The candidate should be a seasoned Christian who seeks to grow in knowledge, wisdom, and grace while also encouraging this growth in others.

Rafiki has these opportunities for classical educators:

Headmasters (4 openings)

Teachers (20 openings)

Dean of the Rafiki Institute of Classical Education (teacher training)– 5 openings

Music educators: 10 openings

Art educators: 10 openings

Persons interested would have to assent to our statement of belief, our mission philosophy, and raise financial support. We are praying that God will use Rafiki to bring classical Christian education to all of Africa through our model schools. Perhaps God might give you or someone you know the opportunity to help Africans know God and raise their standard of living through classical Christian education. Please visit our website at www.rafikifoundation.org to learn more or contact Executive Director Karen Elliott at karene@rafikifoundation.org or (352) 483-9131. 11/17

Due to our continued growth, Cahaya Bangsa Classical School (CBCS) in Indonesia has some openings for the 2016–17 SY as follows: one expat teacher for language arts/rhetoric in high school and one expat teacher for language arts/rhetoric in elementary school. The qualifications of the teacher are: graduated from English literature or linguistic (bachelor's degree or higher) or certified English teacher with in TEFL, TESOL, or CELTA certificate; 25–50 years old; preferably with at least five years of experience; mature Christian; passport valid for a minimum of two years more; and a love of learning. Experiences in coaching students for thesis writing and defense will be advantageous. Cahaya Bangsa Classical School, a K–12 English-speaking school with 700 Indonesian students and a majority of local teachers, is located in Bandung, Indonesia. Applicants must have commitment to Christian classical education, a heart of missions, ability to adjust to different cultures, and strong personal references (working commitment at least two years).
