

Dear Parent,

We realize that you have many educational choices, and classical Christian education might be new to you. Please review the enclosed materials, but most importantly, visit our school during operation. We think you will be inspired by an educational system with deep roots and a reputation for excellent academic results.

In considering private education, you have already demonstrated that education is important to your family. Children can do much at an early age if they have the proper encouragement and structure. As they grow, children change and we change with them. Classical Christian education is anchored in the Trivium which recognizes the developmental stages children go through.

Despite our academic strength, parents seek us out for a more important reason. Christian character development is central to our work at the school. We strive to be excellent in both academics and character. Whether we are teaching students how to greet visitors and shake hands or teaching the essentials of Christian honor, we take the time to develop the whole student. Visiting pastors often comment on our student's knowledge of scripture, poetry, and hymns. We encourage our students to take Christian worldview teaching to heart, not just learn it in their heads. If you say "To whom much is given" to any of our grammar school students in the hall, they will reply with a smile "much is required." We pray that this stays in their hearts for a lifetime.

As you research your educational choices, we hope that you will find our organization helpful in offering an option that is both unique and effective. Our blend of classical content and Christian worldview teaching sets us apart. If you have further questions, feel free to call our admissions manager, arrange to join a tour of our school, or speak with me directly.

In Christ,

Kirk Vander Leest, Headmaster
